Finding a Home.

"I tell you what 'tis Henrietta, I'm a-goin' to speak my mind fur once in my life, if I never speak ag'in," announced Miss Matilda Fennil, as she briskly bit off the thread with which she was basting a flounce on a skirt of pearl gray cloth.

Miss Matilda looked as severely indignant as was compatible with her plump, mild face, which was still fair to look upon in spite of her "thirty-odd" years; while her sister-in law, Mrs. Henrietta, looked supremely indifferent to whatever she might have to say.

Mrs. Fennil was quite the antipode of her sister-in-law, being a showy brunette, with eyes that could look demurely coquettish, or spitefully scornful, according to her mood.

"You're a-doin' wrong, Henrietta, an' you know it," went on Miss Matilda, "a-takin' up with this here stranger man, an' acshilly goin' to marry him, when you've been promised—an' you know you have—to Nat Norroway fur the last two years."

"Oh, indeed!" sniffed the widow. "Mebbe you kin console Nat yourself, seein' you're so anxious to take up fur him."

"It's a burning shame so 'tis," continued Miss Matilda, without noticing the interruption. "An' him way off in Maine, or Floridy, or some o' them Western States, where there's Indians and bears, a-diggin' an' a-delvin' in the mines, to git money enough to marry you. You'd orter be ashamed!"

"Indians an' bears! a-diggin' an' delvin'—te-he!" tittered Mrs. Fennil, aggravatingly. "Thank you, Tilda. I ain't a-goin' to marry an Indian—nor a bear, neither!"

"Now you know I never said nothin' of the kind," protested Tilda, indignantly. "I said Nat was a-diggin' in the mines, an' so he is; an' here you're a-goin' to marry this Mr. What's-his-name—"

"His name is Mr. Theocrastus Belleville," snapped the widow, tartly; an' if you've got any more to say agi'n him, you kin go some'rs else to say it! This is my house, an' if you don't like my doin's, you needn't stay under my ruff another day longer. I've give you a home here ever sence Joe died, an' I ain't a-goin' to put up with no preachin' from you!"

"I've done my sheer o' the work, Henrietta," said Miss Tilda, mildly, while a suspicion of tears started in her gray eyes, "an' I think I've earned my vittles and clothes; but if you don't want me any longer, I kin go."

"You'd have to go sooner or later, anyhow," said the widow, slightly mollified by her sister-in-law's pacific tones. "Tain't no ways likely Theocrastus would want to be saddled with a poor relation at the very start. As for marryin' him, I'm a-doin' the best I kin for myself. He's just bought the nicest house in town, an' furnished it complete, from garret to suller: and I allus did want to live in town. 'Tain't no ways likely Nat'll ever make a forchin' out in the mines, anyhow. An' as I said before, when I marry Theocrastus, you'll hev to find another home; an' you might well be a-lookin' out fur it now."

Miss Matilda finished sewing the flounce on the pearl-gray cloth, which was to be the widow's wedding-dress and then betook herself to her own room to have a good cry, and think over her future prospects.

Finding another home was easier said than done, and Miss Matilda was naturally of a timid, retiring disposition, notwithstanding the bold manner in which she had "spoken her mind" on the present occasion.

But she was not to be left long to her own meditations, for Mrs. Henrietta Fennil was not above asking a favor of her sister-in-law, though she had as good as turned her out of the house half an hour before.

"I want you to go with me to see the house, Tilda," she explained, tripping into the room, in her best dress and a hat bristling with ostrich plumes. "Theocrastus wanted me to meet him and look over it, to see if it suits me; and to go alone."

And Miss Matilda obligingly donned her black-and-white shawl and her old-fashioned hat, and accompanied her sister-in-law on her tour of inspection.

Mr. Theocrastus Belleville was a newcomer in the little village of Crab Orchard, but his recent purchase of a handsome house and his apparently ample supply of money, were sufficient passports to the widow's favor, and the wooing sped on rapidly.

The house was a substantial brick, handsomely finished, with velvet hangings, a dado, hand-painted panels and alcoves.

The floors were covered with cushiony carpets, the windows hung with handsome curtain, the mantles covered with velvet lambrequins

Mrs. Fennil was quite satisfied.

"And now the cage is ready, when can I claim the bird?" whispered Theocratus, tenderly, to the widow, while Miss Matilda sat at the further end of the room, looking forlornly out of the window. "Why not right away—to-morrow?" persisted the anxious suitor.

The widow looked modestly reluctant, but finally allowed herself to be persuaded, and the morrow was set for the wedding-day, when suddenly the hall-door was thrown open, and Nat Norroway strode imperiously into the room.

The widow uttered a little scream, and clung to the arm of her lover, who looked as if he had seen a ghost.

Nat stared coldly at them for a moment.

"So it is true, Slippery Bill," he said at last. "And you have betrayed my trust and stolen my promised wife. I wish you joy of your prize," he added, contemptuously.

"What do you mean, Mr. Norroway?" cried the widow, in alarm. "This gentleman is Mr. Theocrastus Belleville. And what do you mean by coming into his house in this way?"

"Mr. Theocrastus Belleville—and his house?" retorted Nat, contemptuously. "This gentleman, as you call him, is Mr. William Suggs alias Slippery Bill, and this house is mine. I employed him as my agent to purchase it for me before I was aware of his real character."

The widow dropped her suitor's arm, and sank on a velvet covered sofa in strong hysterics.

Miss Matilda rushed to her assistance, while the quandam Theocrastus took advantage of the confusion and stole ignominously away.

Under pretense of owning the house himself, he had sought to marry the widow, who was known to possess a snug sum of money herself.

* * * * * * * *

"I'm glad Nat has forgave me at last, an' sort o' settled down, like he meant to stay," mused Mrs. Fennil to her self, a few weeks later. "But I must git rid of Tilda. It's a little troublesome to have her around every time he comes."

And she took the first opportunity to speak to her sister-in-law on the subject.

"I thought you was a-goin' to look fur another home, Tilda," she began. "Hev you found one yet?"

"Y-yes," said Miss Matilda, hesitatingly. "But—"

"Why don't you go to it, then?" cried Mrs. Fennil, sharply. "I don't need you any more; an' if I marry Nat, as I s'pose I shill, he won't be likely to want you around."

"Oh, Henrietta!" cried Miss Matilda, turning very red. "I—I didn't like to tell you, but Nat has asked me to marry him, and—"

Bang! went the door. The widow had fled to her own; and, much distressed, yet with a thrill of happiness at her heart, Miss Matilda made the simple preyarations for her wedding.

There was a quiet ceremony that evening at the little country parsonage—no wedding-feasts, nor presents, nor invited guests. But the newly-married couple who issued therefrom felt a serene contentment with their lot.

And Miss Matilda had found her home.

Plain Words on Business.

Samuel G. Scott, in his address on "Plain Talks to Young Men" in Association Hall, Phila., recently, the following are a few of the particular apt sentences:

"The entrance into business is a momentous event in the life of a youth.

"The applications for positions are so numerous that a man is compelled to take, not what he chooses, but what he can get."

"There are two things he should be willing to do: to work, and to make small wages at first."

"Happy is the youth who intends to succeed, who is ready to pick up the loose ends of knowledge."

"What a temptation there is to misrepresent in business! How many lies there are even in labels!"

"I tell you there is such a thing as commercial morality."

"From the moment that a man is honest because it is the 'best policy,' he becomes dishonest."

"In speculations it is not the one who puts up the money who wins in the long run. It is the broker. Keep away from the depositing of margins if you would avoid misery."

"Don't aim to be rich. Aim to be right. Stick to that which is right, pure and honest."

"Remember that you have no certain lease on life, and make the most of the time you have while you may."

Firmness of Senator Wilson.

Senator Henry Wilson was a self-controlled as well as a self-made man. He left his New Hampshire home early in life and changed his name, in order to get out from under the baleful shadow of intemperance. He began on the lowest round of the social ladder, and climbed up rung by rung, until he became a political power in the nation.

The first step he took in the ascent placed him on the pledge never to drink intoxicating liquors. The second step made him an industrious laborer, and the third a diligent reader.

He was sent to Washington to carry a petition against the admission of Texas into the Union. John Quincy Adams asked him to a dinner party, where he met some of the great men of the nation. He was asked to drink wine. The temptation to lay aside his temperance principles for a moment, in order not to seem singular, was a strong one. But he resisted it and declined the glass of wine. Mr. Adams commended him for his adherence to his convictions

After Mr. Wilson was elected to the United States Senate, he gave his friends a dinner at a noted Boston hotel. The table was set with not even a wine glass upon it.

'Where are the wine glasses?' asked several, loud enough to remind their host that some of his guests did not like sitting down to a wineless dinner.

'Gentlemen,' said Mr. Wilson, rising and speaking with a good deal of feeling, 'you know my friendship for you and my obligations to you. Great as they are, they are not great enough to make me forget 'the rock whence I was hewn and the pit, whence I was dug.' Some of you know how the curse of intemperance overshadowed my youth. That I might escape I fled from my early surroundings and also changed my name. For what I am, I am indebted, under God, to my temperance vow and my adherence to it. Call for what you want to eat, and if this hotel can provide it, it shall be forthcoming. But wines and liquors cannot come to this table with my consent, because I will not spread in the path of another the snare from which I escaped.

Three rousing cheers showed the brave Senator that men admired the man who had the courage to live up to his convictions.

"Lord Timothy Dexter."

As illustrating the diversity of opinion among critics as to proper methods of punctuation, the story has often been told of an author who wrote his book and had it printed without punctuation, and then supplied a page at the close with punctuation marks for each reader to use according to his own taste. A few particulars about this rare book may interest our readers.

This curious production is evidently the work of a man who in our day would be known as a crank, though he was of sufficient prominence to have a place in "Drake's Dictionary of American Biography." He was a New Englander by the name of Timothy Dexter, and the notice of him in the Biographical Dictionary is as follows:

"Timothy Dexter, known as 'Lord Timothy,' remarkable for his eccentricity, was born at Malden, Jan. 22, 1747, and died at Newburyport, Oct. 22, 1806. He rose from poverty to affluence, possessed much acuteness, and was honest in his dealings, but lacked that kind of prudence which so frequently hides bad and sets off good qualities. By his desire to appear in print he frequently exposed his ignorance. His vanity was exhibited by his assuming the title of 'Lord.' He built a house at Newburyport—adorned with 16 wooden statues," etc.

The title of the curious book is "A Pickle for the Knowing Ones," by Lord Timothy Dexter, with an Introductory Preface, by a Distinguished Citizen of "Auld Newberry." The copy in hand was printed in Newburyport by Blanchard & Sargent in 1848, and is the fourth edition.

The picture of "Lord" Timothy Dexter and his dog, and the outline of his house, with its wooden statues, are as amusing as the literature of the book itself. The spelling is as bad as that of Artemus Ward or of Josh Billings, and the last page is filled with commas, semicolons, interrogation marks, and the like. An accompanying note says: "To avoid dispute all the punctuation marks in this immortal work are printed on one page at the end, so that the reader can pepper his dish to suit himself."

A Story of a Rich Mine.

A Miner who Waited Twenty Years for a Buyer.

And Then Sold a Five-Sixths Interest in His Claim for $1,600,000.

Recently there arrived at the Gilman hotel in this city, says the Portland (Ore.) News, a plainly or rather poorly dressed, cadaverous-looking man, about 50 years of age, who took a $1 room. Soon thereafter it was whispered that the new arrival was Thomas Cruse, the man who had sold the Drum Lummond mine, in Montana, for $1,600,000. Half of this amount is said to be deposited in the First national bank in this city, and the other half in a Montana bank.

It was noticed during the millionair's presence in the house that he spent no money that he could possibly avoid. On Sunday he asked where the catholic church was, instead of hiring a carriage and traveling as becomes a man of so much wealth, he trudged on foot to the church and back. On Tuesday he left for his home in Montana.

Yesterday a gentleman was met who knew Mr. Cruse well, and he said: "Yes, I am well acquainted with him. For the past twenty-five years he has been a prospector in Montana and Idaho, and his present wealth is due to the fact that he is one of those fellows that get hold and never let go.'

"Why, it's twenty years since he struck the mine that he sold for more than a million and a half. In order to develop it he would work for a while for others to obtain a stake for grub, tools, and powder. Then he would put in his time on the mine until his funds were exhausted."

"Finally he struck pay dirt, and his enthusiasm knew no bounds, and for three or four years before he sold out he made a living out of it. How? Why, by extracting a few hundred pounds of ore and taking it to his cabin and reducing it to a pulp in a mortar and washing it out in a bread-pan. You see the mine, although rich, could not be properly developed without capital."

"Being of a secretive disposition, he had a door at the entrance of his hidden treasure which he kept locked at all times, and the miners used to call the place 'Cruse's prison.'"

"The story of the great richness of the mine spread far and wide, and big offers were made for it. Among those who made an offer for the mine was Mackay, of bonanza fame, but the hardy prospector knew full well the value of his find, and would not sell until he got figure. Cruse was a stayer from away back, and don't you forget it. Had it been me I would have sold out long ago."

"Finally an English syndicate commenced to angle with the lucky prospector, and at one time negotiations reached such a stage that the papers were drawn up and read to Cruse, who was also represented by his attorney. A clause in the agreement was read by which the purchasers could buy the one sixth interest he retained, should they so desire. This jarred on the old man's ear like a false note to an orchestra leader.

"I want that stricken out, and I'll give you just five minutes to do so. If you don't the jig is up," sententiously said the man who had waited twenty years for a purchaser.

"Well, but that's a mere formality, and it's not likely the company will want to freeze you out," said the representative of English capital. This sort of expostulation was kept until the hands of the clock marked the expiration of the five fateful minutes.

"The jig's up," slowly and sternly said Cruse.

"And indeed it was, and the failure to accede to the request made by Cruse cost $100,000 extra, and it was several months before he resumed negotiations. Had the clause been stricken out five-sixths of the mine could have been purchased for $1,500,000, but when the negotiations were resumed $1,600,000 was asked and received for five-sixths of the Drum Lummond mine."

The mine is situated about three miles from Butte City, M. T., and is probably the richest gold-producing mine in the world.

Shakespeare Versus Hash.

"I tell you sir," said an eloquent boarder, referring to Shakespeare, "that man has left his impress upon the thoughts of the world, and his influence will reach to the remotest prosterity. When we come under the influence of his genius we no longer grovel in the dust, thinking only of bread and butter, but we—" Just then the dinner bell rang, and he fell over a chair in his mad haste to get at the provender and at the next moment he was eating soup at the rate of a quart a minute.

Remarkable Presence of Mind.

There were half a dozen old fellows sitting on a bench in a public park talking upon various subjects, and finally they began to tell stories as to wonderful feats and presence of mind they had witnessed. One old gentleman told of the building of a mill in York State, where a number of upright posts had to be put in about six feet of water, with the end resting on the rocky bottom. In lowering one of these posts, the end became entangled in the coat tail of a man in a boat, who was steadying it, and took him to the bottom; but before he could get untangled, he was pinned fast under nearly six feet of water.

'With wonderful presence of mind,' said the story teller, 'he slipped out of his coat and came up. His coat remained under the post.'

A lean, lank-looking fellow had been listening came up, saying:

'That's a remarkable incident, but nothing to what I saw in Milwaukee Bay about thirty years ago.'

'What was it? Tell!' exclaimed all the party at once.

'I was out in a boat with a friend. We had started out for a fish, and had taken our guns along to shoot ducks, if any should happen along, which was a common thing in those days. Well, we hadn't been there long before I, in some way, lost my powder-horn overboard, and it sunk in thirty feet of water. There it lay on the bottom in plain sight. My friend said he would dive for it. I tried to persuade him not to, but he was determined. I noticed he didn't take off his powder horn, and before I could call attention to it he was in the water. I waited about twenty minutes—'

'Twenty minutes!' they all exclaimed.

'That's the exact time, my friends. I held my watch in my hand, and timed him. After twenty minutes I began to get a little nervous, and I looked over the boat; and what do you think I saw?'

'I suppose your friend laid on the bottom of the lake drowned,' ventured one.

'No; you are wrong. Here is where he showed his presence of mind and dirty, thieving disposition. There he sat on the bottom of the lake, pouring the powder out of my horn into his own and whistling. That's what I consider a remarkable incident of a man's presence of mind.'

No reply was made by any of his listeners, but each one quietly got up, looking suspiciously at the story teller, and left him alone, master of the situation.

Where the Old Shoes go To.

It has long been known by many persons what become of the old tin cans which are picked up throughout the city and carried away in wagons, but it has only recently been discovered to what use the old shoes are put. Occasionally wagons go through the city, and return toward New York heavily laden with old shoes and boots—those that have been thrown away as worthless. It is quite an industry in New York, gathering these, and they are said to be worth five cents each. The foreman of a wall paper factory in the city mentioned says that different prices are paid for different grades of leather, and that a pair of calfskin boots will bring fifteen cents. The boots and shoes are first soaked in several waters to get the dirt off them. Then the nails and threads are removed and the leather is ground into a fine pulp ready for use. The embossed leather paperings which have come into fashion lately, as well as the stamped leather fire screens, are realy nothing but thick paper covered with a layer of this fine pressed leather pulp. The foreman of the factory to which the reference is made says that the finer the quality of the leather the better it takes the bronze and old gold and other expensive colors in the designs painted on them. Fashionable people think they are going way back to mediaeval times when they have the walls of their libraries and dining rooms covered with embossed leather. They don't know that the shoes and boots which their neighbors threw into the ash-barrel a month before form the beautiful material on their walls and on the screens which protect their eyes from the fire. Many other trades use old shoes and boots, and the tops of carriages are largely made of them, ground up and pressed into sheets. Book-binders use them in making the cheaper forms of leather bindings, and the new style of leather frames with leather mats in them are entirely made of the cast-off covering of the feet. There is very little wasted in this world.

THE Prohibition State Convention will meet at Pittsburgh to-day.

HON. S. G. RANDALL left Washington last week and will spend the summer on his farm at Berwyn, a quiet place in the country along the Pennsylvania railroad

ON last Friday the Legislature adjourned and as far as the apportionment bill with all that hangs around about it is concerned, everything will for the present remain as it had been.

WITH the exception ot a few chronic kickers the people who elected President Cleveland are perfectly satisfied withthe working of the governmental machine. It seems to run very nice and smooth and the fears that a changewould cause the downfall of the country prove entirely unfounded.

GLADSTONE, the great British Premier, who resigned his position, announced in the House of Commons on Friday afternoon that the Queen had accepted his resignation and that the Marquis of Salisbury had been summoned by her majesty to be entrusted with the formation of a Tory cabinet. This is the political end of the leader of the liberal party in England.

Curtin and the Old Soldiers.

Washington Letter to Pittsburg Post.

Governor Curtin receives more applications from old soldiers to look up pension cases than any five members of the House combined. He is so well known by reputation at least that they do not hesitate to write him about their needs and claims. "If I were several times a millionaire," said Mr. Curtin recently, "I should be a poor man in a short time if I responded to all the requests for aid I received."

THE Ohio Republican State Convention met on last Thursday morning, with J. D. Taylor as temporary chairman.

Judge Joseph B. Foracker, of Cincinnati, who was a former candidate for the governorship of Ohio, was re nominated for that office on the first ballot. The following other nominations were made by acclamation: Gen. Robert P. Kenney, for Lieutenant Governor, Judge George W. McIlvaine for Supreme Judge and John C. Brown, of Jefferson, for Treasurer, J. A. Kohler, of Summit, was nominated for Attorney General and Wells S. Jones, of Pike, for Board of Public Works.

A sore spot to Foracker is the opposition of the colored men to his election, which will be used by the Democrats to his disadvantage.

LATEST advices of General Grant's health state that his condition has again become alarming. The cancer has been steadily increasing during the last two weeks and yesterday the General had a sudden attack. His throat swelled, the pain increased, and it was feared he was going to relapse into the same critical condition of last March. Retiring early, the General undressed and tried to go to sleep, but could not. He was restless until midnight, when he went to sleep and slept at intervals till about 8 o'clock. On account of the precarious condition of the distinguished patient, Dr. Douglas has thought it better to remove him to Mount McGregor before he gets too weak to make it impossible. He will leave to-morrow in a private car, accompanied by Dr. Douglas and several members of the family. The drives through the Park, which the General delighted in so much, have been discontinued on account of the rapid increase of the cancer.

THE Republican caucus Thursday afternoon, nominated George Handy Smith for President pro tem of the Senate. The Democrats nominated Senator Ross, of York, for the same office.

Pennsylvania Honored.

WASHINGTON, June 11. — Ex-Congressman George A. Jenks, of Brookville, Pa., arrived here to-day in response to a telegram from Secretary Lamar. Mr. Jenks has been tendered the position of assistant secretary of the interior, which was created by the last congress, and which ex-Congressman Post so confidently expected to get. This appointment gives two of the highest offices in the gift of the administration to Pennsylvania, the other being Assistant Postmaster General Hay.

WASHNGTON LETTER.

From our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 16, 1885.

About as bitter a contest over political spoils as Mr. Cleveland will ever be called upon to decide is that over the Chicago Marshalship, which he has just given to a man who does not live in Chicago. There were sixteen applicants for the position, all from Chicago, and all buzzing in the President's ears, early and late, but a still, small voice came up from a Democratic Congressman, who told the President that if he was after a good man to fill the office he had one, who, like the President himself, had been the sheriff of his county, and who, in a county that ordinarily gave two thousand Republican majority, had been elected because he was the right man in the right place. It cannot be denied that the President has exhibited more backbone in making this appointment than has usually been accorded to men in his place, because the elements at work upon him in the interests of other candidates embraced the whole leadership of the Chicago Democracy, to say nothing of a vast amount of outside Democratic pressure from Indiana, Michigan, Missouri and Wisconsin.

A colored watchman in the Treasury was driven to incurable insanity the other night on being told that the Republicans were bent on killing him for holding an office under a Democratic administration. This is the sort of diversion that the Republicans all along have been indulging in to retain their hold of the negro vote, which, in Virginia and Maryland, counts for a good deal. This African gentleman was from Virginia, and had been one of Mahone's best lieutenants in many a Virginia campaign, but he was intelligent enough at last to see the uses to which he and his class were being put by the scalawag crowd that Mahone led by the nose, and he flew the track. The elimination of the best part of the negro element from Mahone's forces, has broken him up completely, and he who was only two short years ago the master hand of the political destinies of the old commonwealth, is now so poor that he finds none to do him reverence.

It would seem from the evidence of the architectural experts now being examined upon an investigation of the Capitol architect, Mr. Clark, that the reign of shoddy commenced in this country a good many years ago. From this testimony we are informed the very walls of the Capitol, which we assumed would stand the wear and tear of centuries of politics and politicians, have long been in a state of disintegration. The iron dome, weighing 8,909,200 pounds is about to fall upon the heads of the unfortunate visitors in the rotunda, without a moment's warning, because of the shoddy material with which it was composed, the shoddy priming that was put into the paint, and the shoddy labor with which the iron beams were joined together. Even the bronze female that surmounts the dome to represent the freedom shriekers, is warped out of all shape and looks as though it had just emerged from a case of secondary rickets. Of course the architect of the Capitol has its enemies, and they may overstate matters somewhat, but I wish that you could see some of the botch-work about this Capitol, for which we have paid first and last-about seventeen millions of hard earned dollars. Summer Heat in Earnest.

There is every indication that the summer heat has come to stay. There was a general rise in temperature on Sunday in the East and West. New York sweltered at 89 degrees, Boston was credited with 86 degrees, while Atlantic City at 88 did not fare much better than Philadelphia at 96 degrees. In the west the average was about the same. Detroit was treated to 83 degrees, Toledo 87 degrees, and even Cheyenne showed 66 degres.

A frightful collision of trains occurred on the Pennsylvania Schuylkill Valley Road on Friday afternoon in which three men lost their lives and two men were injured. The conductor, engineer and fireman are the killed, and were all on the engine when the horrible accident took place. The trains collided within fifty yards of a little station named Spring Mill, one mile east of Conshohocken.

The trains in collision were the fast freight train running between Philadelphia and Reading, and known as the "market train," and a local freight train bound for the same destination. The local train left the city some time in advance of the market train and should have been on the siding at Spring Mill when the fast freight reached there.

—Druggists as a rule are extremely jealous and careful of the honor of their profession, and are loth to praise a medicine which they do not from personal knowledge know to be a meritorious article. Chronic Dysentery.

Mr. James Brannan, Second avenue, Pittsburgh, Pa., writes: "For two years I have been constantly troubled with a chronic diarrhœa, or dysentery, having had, on an average, from twenty to twenty-five passages every twenty-four hours, and every one bloody. I had thoroughly tried all the prominent physicians in Pittsburgh, was twice in the West Penn Hospital, the first time thirteen weeks, and though I left it much better, yet in five days I was as bad as ever. I then tried two other great doctors in this city, and one of them finally assured me I was not long for this world, and advised me to write to my friends about it. I next went to Dr. Hartman, without the least confidence that he could do anything for me. He examined me, smiled, and said, he could stop the bloody discharges in less than two weeks, which he did with PERUNA, and I have now been entirely well for several weeks, and never felt better in my lif, though I am still taking his PERUNA. I will take it whenever I need medicine.

Mr. Patrick Burns, Pittsburgh, writes: "I have suffered intensely from piles and chronic diarrhœa. I was treated by five of the best physicians and surgeons in the city of Pittsburgh, and with all grew constantly worse. Finally three of them said my only hope was an operation. This frightened me, and I went immediately to Dr. Hartman, who has entirely cured me with PERUNA. I have been at work now for three months, and never in my life felt better. Call and see me at corner of Twenty-seventh and Mulberry streets, Twelfth ward, Pittsburgh."

Mr Patrick Cunningham, S. S, near Sidney street, Pittsburgh, Pa., writes: "For five years I have suffered inexpressibly from internal and external piles. I have tried the best physicians of Pittsburgh and Allegheny without relief. I went to Dr. Hartman, who cured me without detention from work with PERUNA."

Charles Frank, of Emrichville, Jefferson county, Ohio, writes: "I had piles and fistula in ano for four years. I had suffered constantly with a discharge of matter from the parts, and sometimes from the contents of the bowels through it. I could not have borne it much longer. I had heard so much of the ill effects of a knife operation that I resolved to go to Dr. Hartman. He ridiculed the silly idea of cutting it, and at once performed his own original operation without the knife, and without pain. I am thoroughly cured, though of course I took PERUNA."

—More people, adults and children, are troubled with costiveness than with any other ailment. Dr. Henry Baxter's Mandrake Bitters will cure costiveness and prevent the diseases which result from it.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., 10 Dexter St.

DR. J. A. SHERMAN—Dear Friend: I am sorry, Doctor, you have left Boston. Persons continue to come to my house to inquire respecting you, while many others write me. Many who left me said they would surely seek your aid. Your success has been wonderful, and I am quite sure without a parallel. To my surprise my large Hernia appears to be perfectly healed. I did not expect it at the age of 79. After receiving your treatment I was relieved from suffering which was fast taking my life. I have no idea I should be living had you not taken my case in hand. I weigh now 170 pounds, over thirty pounds more than then. I think you must receive a great amount of happiness from the relief given and gratitude rendered.

You owe it to my son in Boston, who has known many of your patients before and after healing, that I applied to you. "Go," said he, "to Dr. Sherman; he is doing wonders." I had failed of help from a dozen others and doubted, but he would not let me rest till I went. I bless the day I did so. It is to me a mystery, Doctor, that you have so wonderfully out-distanced all in your profession.

I hope your life will long be spared to relieve sufferers, and thus bless the world. Most affectionately and gratefully yours, REV. JOHN ALDEN.

The Rev. John Alden's case was quite as bad as Mr. James Corlew's, in Dr. Sherman's illustrated book. Those who value immunity from strangulated rupture, the injury trusses inflict, and the comforts of physical soundness should lose no time in securing the benefits of Dr. Sherman's treatment and remedies. His book, containing likenesses of bad cases before and after cure, with evidence of his success and indorsements from distinguished physicians, clergymen, merchants, farmers, engineers and others, is expressed to those who send 10 cents. Dr. Sherman can be consulted daily at his office, 251 Broadway, New York, except Thursdays and Fridays, when he will be in Philadelphia office, 302 Walnut Street. NOTE.—No operation or detention from business Patients from a distance can receive treatment and leave for home same day. 23 4t

An Efficient Remedy

In all cases of Bronchial and Pulmonary Affections is AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. As such it is recognized and prescribed by the medical profession, and in many thousands of families, for the past forty years, it has been regarded as an invaluable household remedy. It is a preparation that only requires to be taken in very small quantities, and a few doses of it administered in the early stages of a cold or cough will effect a speedy cure, and may, very possibly, save life. There is no doubt whatever that

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Has preserved the lives of great numbers of persons, by arresting the development of Laryngitis, Bronchitis, Pneumonia, and Pulmonary Consumption, and by the cure of those dangerous maladies. It should be kept ready for use in every family where there are children, as it is a medicine far superior to all others in the treatment of Croup, the alleviation of Whooping Cough, and the cure of Colds and Influenza, ailments peculiarly incidental to childhood and youth. Promptitude in dealing with all diseases of this class is of the utmost importance. The loss of a single day may, in many cases, entail fatal consequences. Do not waste precious time in experimenting with medicines of doubtful efficacy, while the malady is constantly gaining a deeper hold, but take at once the speediest and most certain to cure,

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

PREPARED BY
Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.
Sold by all Druggists.

Read what the people say concerning the ability of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil to cure asthma, catarrh, croup, colds, etc. Mrs. Dora Koch of Buffalo, says: "For croup it is decidedly efficacious." [Mrs. Jacob Mellisor of Marion, Ohio, says the same thing.] S. S. Graves, Akron, N. Y., writes: "Had asthma of the worst kind, took one dose of Thomas' Eclectric Oil and was relieved in a few minutes. Would walk five miles for this medicine and pay $5 a bottle for it." Druggist C. R. Hall, Grayville, Ill., says: "Cured an ulcerated throat for me in twenty-four hours." "Sat up in bed and coughed till the clothing was wet with perspiration. My wife insisted that I use Thomas' Eclectric Oil. The first teaspoonful RELIEVED me." E. H. Perkins, Creek Centre, N. Y. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is also a TIP-TOP external application for rheumatism, cuts, scalds, burns, bites, bruises, etc. When visiting the druggist, ask him what he knows of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil; if he has been long in the drug trade, be sure he will speak highly of it.

Worked Wonders.

"My daughter was very bad off on account of a cold and pain in her lungs. Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil cured her in twenty-four hours. One of the boys was cured of sore throat. This medicine has worked wonders in our family." Alvah Pinckney, Lake Mohopac, N. Y.

Old in Experience.

We have had thirty years' experience in manufacturing Raw Bone Super-Phosphates, and farmers may depend upon our goods.

There is no improvement or economy of manufacture suggested by science or accomplished by skilled experience, that we have not embodied in producing reliable and cheap fertilizers.

It has been shown over and over again by testimonials from reliable farmers, and by analyses made and published by State Boards of Agriculture, that Baugh's $25 Phosphate is a complete and reliable fertilizer for general use.

—Rev. Mountz will preach in Grenoble's Hall, Spring Mills, next Sunday June 21st, at 2:30, p. m. All are invitted.

The services at Paradise church (better known as Musser's church) will be in the evening, instead of 2½ o'clock, p. m., as announced.

The gentleman spoken of is a brother of our townsman A. C. Musser.

—Jonathan Harter handed us a very old German newspaper the other day, which was published at Harrisburg in 1810, and bears the name of "*Harrisburger Morgan*rothe." Benjamin Meyer was the editor of this four-page paper, which gave 12 columns of reading matter on a 16 x 20 inch sheet.

INFORMATION WANTED.—Information is wanted concerning Alex Davie, a lad 16 years old, rather heavy set, nearly five feet in heighth, with dimple in left cheek and name upon right arm, light hair and blue eyes. Any one who can advise his parents of his whereabouts will confer a great favor upon them. Address Robert Davie, DuBois, Pa.

QUERY.—A reader of the JOURNAL would like the correspondent "VIR" of Coburn to tell who St. Aaron was, when he lived, when he labored, where he died and when canonized.

We would answer, in place of our correspondent, that it should have read St. Andrew's church, in honor of the Apostle who stood with the first in rank among the twelve.

DEAR EDITOR:—For the information of my parishioners, allow me to say that, not having enjoyed very good health of late, my Presiding Elder advised me to seek some rest. Accordingly myself and wife and daughter will leave Millheim per private conveyance for New Berlin commencement of Union Seminary, thence to Liverpool to visit my grandson, thence to Lewisburg and Buffalo valley. We will be absent some weeks. B. HENGST.

—Charles Fox, a young man aged about 15 years, while painting at a three-story brick building in Lock Haven, was killed on Tuesday of last week by the falling of the scaffolds. He descended a height of 24 feet landing on his head. His older brother, George, was thrown from the upper platform, a distance of 32 feet, alighting on the pavement on his feet. He sprained his ankle, broke his left leg above the knee and was very much bruised all over his person but fortunately escaped with his life.

Blank, who is a model mechanic. The celebrated E. P. Allis & Co. rolls are being put in and the most complete machinery to make it the best Roller System Mill. As soon as Mr. Fisher is ready to turn out first-class flour he will make the proper announcement.

You will find Mr. Snyder a first-class man to deal with and his prices will compare well with the times. Give him a call.

—On a recent visit to Spring Mills we had occasion to stop with H. G. Shafer, of the Spring Mills Hotel. It is indeed a pleasure and comfort to while away the time at his neatly-kept hotel and to sit down at the sumptuous meals which await the hungry traveler there. Henry seems to fully understand how to run a hotel successfully and enjoys a large patronage.

—The M. E. church of this place for the first time observed Children's day last Sunday. Appropriate services were held and addresses made both in the forenoon and evening.

During the services in the evening twenty persons were admitted into the church as members. Rev. Heckman preached a very good sermon to a crowded church.

—The Rebersburg Select School, C. L. Gramley, Principal, will open July 27th, and continue nine or ten weeks. The first-class reputation of this school and its efficient principal make it a special inducement to teachers or persons expecting to teach, to take a term of instruction there. Classes will be formed in all the higher branches of education. Tuition from $2.00 to $5.00 for the term. For further information apply to the principal.

—Messrs. Musser & Smith are busy preparing for the erection of their new brick store house on corner of Main and Penn streets. The ground walls will be built this summer yet, while, the brick and frame work will be completed next spring. The gentlemen speak of probably finishing the second story of the spacious building for an Opera Hall. The community, we are sure, would be extremly thankful for this much-needed improvement, as our town has actually no decent place for public meetings, &c., except the churches.

—SATURDAY EVENING.—Millheim had a very lively appearance last Saturday evening. The streets and pavements were thronged with people and the merchants reaped the benefits of the crowd. About dusk the band furnished some music on the diamond and proceeded to the town hall where the festival of the M. E. Ladies' Society was in splendid running order. The hall was crowded to its full capacity, every table being occupied by lovers of the cooling dish. The ladies seemed to have their hands full all evening and the net proceeds amount to $56. As usual the display of fine and delicious cakes was tempting enough to delight the heart of any epicure.

SUICIDE.—On Sunday the intelligence reached this town of the death of Jack Roush, residing in Stitzler's hotel, below the Narrows, and the fact that the subject of this article took his life by poisoning himself caused many a one to shudder. Mr. Roush had been in town visiting only a few weeks ago and returned to his home last week. On Saturday forenoon he was found in his bedroom, where he had gone and locked himself up unknown to the family, lying on the floor dead. On investigation it was found that he had taken a dose of laudanum. An inquest was held over his body and the jury's verdict was, "came to his death by taking poison in a fit of mental debility." He was buried on Monday night.

Mr. Roush was well-known by most of our readers, having kept hotel at Rebersburg for many years.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—On last Thursday Wm Adams of North street, received the news, that his daughter, Sadie, who is working for Judson Smith of Lewisburg, met with a distressing accident. She was boiling soap when in some way her clothes caught fire and she was severely burned before the flames could be extinguished Mrs. Smith, the lady of the house, in trying to help Miss Adams, also received some burns. The girl's mother, Mrs. Adams at once left for Lewisburg and as far as we could ascertain the sufferer is out of danger and getting along fairly.

AYER'S Hair Vigor cures baldness. Hair Vigor restores youthful freshness and color to faded and gray hair. It attains these results by the stimulation of the hair roots and color glands. It rejuvenates the HAIR and cleanses it. It restores to the HAIR that, either by reason of age or diseases of the scalp, has become dry, harsh and brittle, a pliancy and glossy silken softness of extreme beauty. There is no dye in Ayer's Hair VIGOR and the good it does is by the it imparts to the follicles, and the cleanliness and healthfulness of the condition in which it maintains the scalp.

AYER'S Hair Vigor renews the hair. Hair Vigor is the best cure known for Brashy Hair, Scald Head, Itching Humors, Tetter Sores, Torpid Follicles, and all other diseases of the scalp that cause the falling of the HAIR and its fading. FRIEND JOURNAL:

Permit me to offer the following incentive to the hopeful and patient disciples of Izaak Walton who loiter away long sunny afternoons along the raging waters of Elk Creek, contented if they catch a few "chubs" and crowing like roosters when they capture a few trout or suckers:—Yesterday a friend sent us a pickerel weighing 16 pounds and 40½ inches long. It was speared six miles from here in Turkey river, a stream a little larger than Penn's Creek. A magnificent fish for these parts, I assure you. I suppose nearly all of your readers have seen pickerel. It is a very shapely fish—built for speed, like the paper boats of University crews. Its mouth is large, the under jaw slightly protuding beyond the upper, and the teeth are sharp and serrated; the front teeth incline inward, so that the fish can easily hold its prey; it is easy for the victim to get into the pickerel's mouth, but next to impossible to get out.

Besides pickerel, our streams afford black bass, trout, cat-fish [here called "bull-heads"], a species of sucker called "red-horse," and of course the omnipresent chub, or minnow, as it is here called. Trout are rather scarce, however.

After an absence of some nine years, I have found on my return here the town very much improved. A noteworthy feature is the telephone system, which connects West Union [the county seat of Fayette] with all the towns in the county.

Quite a number of Pennsylvanians are in the county. Among those in town are Hon. S. B. Ziegler, Congressman, Wm E. Fuller, James McMasters, T. R. Stam, and John Foote. Mr. Stam is building up a good business in his "Bee Hive" store. He tells me that his sales the other Saturday amounted to $180—which is certainly an improvement on Millheim.

John Foote is in the Chicago grocery store and does a flourishing business.

Several of our speculators have been shipping cattle to Dakota and Montana. It seems that, with all their stock-raising out there, cattle fetch better prices at present than here.

Had a talk with David Bell the other day—an old resident here. He told me of having met Ex-sheriff Musser and lady at the New Orleans Exposition and of having had an entertaining conversation with them.

Crops are doing finely, and promise to make up what was lost by a late Spring. We have had some good showers of late, and the "green things" are growing most luxuriantly. Fruit trees, however, have been seriously hurt by the winter's severity. There will be scarcely any apples—the only fruit to which much attention is paid. Wild red plumbs are abundant—and these are all right, being native.

You may wish to know something of how prohibition is working in Iowa. Well, it does not altogether prohibit; a large quantity of liquors is smuggled into the State—especially beer. The law is, nevertheless, doing a good work, and in some places is vigorously enforced. In a late paper I notice that at Washington, in the southeastern part of the State, 800 kegs of beer from Gugenheimer's brewery were seized and ordered destroyed. Speaking of the destruction by the Sheriff and assistants the Press gives this graphic description:

The kegs were taken out doors and their contents poured upon the ground. But the large vessels were fixtures and could not be removed; so they were mashed and cut up in the cellar. The amber floor was knee deep there, one man says he got wet to the thighs. The liquor ran out over his door sill; and finally they came up town, got a pump and emptied the cellar in that way. But we hear that the freshet weakened the wall in one place and it caved in. The value of the vessels destroyed is quoted at $500; the beer was worth as much more. It is reported that the brewer will sue for damages in the Federal Courts. Men scooped up the beer in hats and drank it. To men had an old rusty watering pot, and stood shoulder to shoulder close, one sucking out of the spout and the other out of the top—a co-operative orgie, a joint stock revel, a copartnership of booze. The officers had hard work to prevent a carousal. The beer ran down to the creek, and even the creek was full of suckers.

Think of it—O! think of it, ye guzzlers of the amber "sea-foam." C.C.Z.

The Hat Exploded.

'Speaking of nitro-glycerine,' said Dr. Roberts, the oil torpedo man, to a group of legislators in Warren the other day, 'and its explosive properties, reminds me of one incident of a thousand that I could relate regarding it. At the factory where the oil well torpedoes are made we strain the nitro-glycerine through the crown of an old felt hat, and when the hat has served its purpose we destroy it. One day some of the workmen, instead of destroying the hat, washed it thoroughly and treated it with alkalis in order to destroy the effect of the nitro-glycerine. Then they laid it up on a shelf and forgot about it. Some two years afterward one of the men ran across the hat, and his curiosity was excited as to whether it would explode if struck a hard blow. He placed it on one of the iron arms that run out from the tinner's bench in the factory and struck it, while his companions looked on in wonderment. He struck it twice without any result, but the third time it exploded, blew the iron through a brick wall, knocked the man down and broke both of his arms, and wrecked the interior of the tin shop.'

—In Henry & Johnson's Arnica and Oil Liniment is combined the curative properties of the different oils, with the healing qualities of Arnica. Good for man and animal. Every bottle guaranteed.

The Power of Taffy.

A tramp sneaked up to the window of Colonel Merrill's kitchen, and taking off his remnant of a hat, said to Matilda Snowball, who is blacker than the ace of spades:

"Fair lady, can't you give a poor but respectable man something to stay his stomach. Have you no pie for instance?"

Matilda had both compassion and pie, and cutting the later in halves, gave one of them to the polite visitor, remarking that he was a gentleman, even if he was white.

"Thanks," he responded, "May you retain your present beauty for a thousand years."

"Dat's twice too much," said Matilda, blushing.

"Well, if it's twice too much, fair lady, give me the other half of the pie to make us even."

He got it.

DOWNS' ELIXIR.

N. H. DOWNS'

Vegetable Balsamic

ELIXIR

For the cure of

Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Catarrh, Croup, Asthma, Pleurisy, Hoarseness, Influenza, Spitting Blood, Bronchitis, and all diseases of the Throat, Chest, and Lungs. In all cases where this Elixir is used its efficacy is at once manifested, convincing the most incredulous that is not incurable, if properly attended to.—At its commencement it is but a slight irritation of the membrane which covers the Lungs; then an inflamation, when the cough is rather dry, local fever, and the pulse more frequent, the cheeks flushed and chills more common. This Elixir in curing the above complaints, operates so as to remove all morbid irritations and inflamation from the lungs to the surface, and finally expel them from the system. It facilitates expectoration.

It heals the ulcerated surfaces and relieves the cough and makes the breathing easy. It supports the strength and at the same time reduces the fever. It is free from strong opiate and astringent articles, which are of so drying a nature as to be in great danger of destroying the patient; whereas this medicine never dries or stops the cough, but, by removing the CAUSE, consequently, when the cough is cured the patient is well. Send address for pamphlet giving full directions, free.

Price 35 cts., 50 cts., and $1.00 per bottle.
